TO DENISON WE RAISE OUR SONG:
FAIR COLLEGE ON THE HILL,
THE NAME THAT SETS OUR SOULS ON FIRE
AND MAKES OUR SENSES THRILL.
TO DENISON, MY DENISON,
IN PRAISE OUR VOICES SWELL,
THE SCENES OF HAPPY COLLEGE DAYS,
THE HOME WE LOVE SO WELL.

Student life

Denisonians pride themselves on having a student life that is a celebration of the diverse range of interests on campus. The number of different clubs on the hill provides a chance for everyone to get involved. Student Life on campus is an important way for the college to come together and build a sense of community.

The Gala

This year's Gala was titled 'A Night in New Orleans.' Organized by UPC and CLIC, the event was filled with stunning decorations, photo booths, and delicious food. The Denison community came together for another magical night at Slayter Campus Commons.

Diwali

DISA brings the campus together at the Open House to celebrate Diwali - the festival of lights. The evening was bright and colorful and filled with South Asian food, dancing, music, rangoli, story-telling and other fun activities.

My Africa Night

ASA organizes another successful Africa Night to commemorate Africa Week on campus! The event was a beautiful and fun-filled celebration of African and Black culture. Open-mic, poetry, dance-offs, and singing, were a few of the many memorable moments of the night.

Lunar New Year

The Denison Asian Students Association celebrates Lunar New Year! The whole week was marked by events of traditionally Asian culture such as calligraphy, lantern painting, Asian cuisine dinner, and beautiful performances in the new year concert.

Workshop

Lantern Festival

The Global China Connection presents the Lantern Festival as an opportunity to destress, come together and celebrate Asian culture.

Dumpling Party

Food, without a doubt, brings people together as witnessed at the Dumpling Party organized by DASU and GCC that put together a platter with dumpling-like food from different cultures.

Asian Identity

The event was a celebration of Asian Identity through poetry and story-telling.

Korean Dinner

Dencon

One of the Gaming Guild's biggest events, DENCON brings together all those who have a love for games. The event that lasts almost an entire day included board games, card games, online games and more!

Day of Mindfulness

The first of its kind at Denison, the Day of Mindfulness was a day dedicated to students to help them de-stress and focus on mental health. Some of the events of the day included painting the graffiti wall, zentangle, dance workshops, and discussions on mental health.

D-Day

This year's D-Day was another fun-filled night marked by performances by Denzel Curry and ilham. Students came together at Mitchell for the much awaited event!

Girl

was a play written by Mora V. Harris, directed by Camron Alten-Dunkle '21 and produced by the Denison Independent Theatre Association. It follows a teenage alien and her father struggling to fit in among earthlings.

Thanksgiving Dinner

Denison's Culinary Club organizes a Thanksgiving Dinner at the Open House. With delicious home-cooked food, they remind all of us that we have much to be grateful for.

Queer Trivia

Outlook brings together the Denion Community at the Bandersnatch for a fun-filled and informative session on LGBTQ trivia!

LGBTQ Ice cream

Celebrating LGBTQIA identities with ice-cream!

Fall Craft Party

Students take a little time off during their busy days to spend time with some adorable therapy dogs at Slayter! How can you resist those puppy eyes! Paws & Relax

Badminton Trounament

The Office of International Studies and the Badminton Club present the Fall 2019 Badminton Tournament! A not-super-competitve-fun-filled day of badminton with your peers.

MCG: Step Into the Culture Banquet

The Multicultural Greek Life brings together the Denison community at a banquet to celebrate their diversity and varied cultures from around the world.

Burpees 24-hrs Show

Burpee's Seedy Theatrical Company is Denison's oldest improv comedy troupe. Hilarious, daring and thoroughly enjoyable, students deliver with amazing performances. Every year they get together for their annual 24hour theatrical marathon.

Events

Each school year is marked by a number of events on Denison's campus. Starting with freshman induction in the fall to senior graduation in the spring, this section covers everything that happens in-between. Some of the events include the VAIL Series, the Gala, and D-Day. These events give students the chance to explore areas of interest outside academics and take some time off to celebrate life on the hill.

New Beginings

The induction ceremony officially welcomes the members of the Class of 2023. Students and family learn a little of what it means to be a Denisonian and begin their journey on the hill.

Academics

With some of the best faculty and the brightest students, academics at Denison is an integral part of the Denison experience. Much more than just lectures and exams, the academic experience at Denison forces students to think critically, be open-minded and take part in real-world experiences. Small class sizes, one-on-one ofce hour interactions, and genuine relationships with faculty and each other help students create unbreakable bonds and incredible memories.

One of my fondest memories at Denison was the Bogaert student reading series that I participated in my senior year. I may be a biochem major, but I have an avid passion for the fine arts, particularly creative writing. I love writing poetry and had the great opportunity to read not once but twice at the newly established Bogaert reading. I was so nervous at first since I didn't feel all that qualified being a STEM major, but it turned out great and my friends and professors were so supportive.

Covid-19 & remote learning

It was rather jarring to be so forcibly pulled out of my community. Remote learning surely disrupted my social life at Denison much more than my academic career. However one of my professors did a particularly incredible job at managing the transition. My genetics class taught by Dr. Liebl restructured the class, assignments, and labs to fit the online medium. The class met one a week and Dr. Liebl was proactive to keep in contact with us. The class was very different, especially since all our hands-on labs had to be cancelled, but Dr. Liebl made sure to keep it engaging and effective. His recorded lectures were particularly entertaining.

Luckily my varsity fencing career wasn't disrupted all that much since the season had just wrapped up the weekend before we had to leave campus. But it was still terribly sad to leave my teammates prematurely.

Denison helped me to realize my potential for research, comprehension, synthesis, and relaying information. On the human side of things, Denison gave me a space to become a more confident, well-rounded, and emotionally cognizant individual, thanks to the great people I was able to surround myself with. I don't know which of these two categories will benefit me the most, but it is clear to me how much I grew in both regards during the four years (or three and three quarters) I spent at Denison. Regardless of what I do in the next stages of my life, I know I will not feel unprepared.

Covid-19 & remote learning

As soon as the email came out that told us we would not be returning to campus after spring break, it quickly set in that the time we had for a traditional college experience was up. My discussion-based classes were difficult to translate into online learning, and the work the fencing team had done to be competitive in the Club National Championships was out the window completely. The interpersonal element of Denison, the center-point of the liberal arts education (as well as the social scene), was largely cut as well, of course. But in all of these cases, video calling software saved at least some of the experience. The hours I spent on Zoom socializing, learning, and drinking with my professors, coaches, and friends were not as good as hours spent in person, but at least they were something to make the end of our senior year less abrupt. Now I can look forward to our reunion in 2021.

Mathematics & Computer Science

In the spring of my sophomore year, my weapon squad (women's epee) came in 8th at the Midwest Fencing Conference Championships (which includes both club and D1 through D3 varsity teams around the midwest). I had only joined the team a few months ago and it was the first time that Denison fencing had a full women's team, so it was really exciting that we broke into the top 8 of the conference. This past year, we came in 6th and were one point away from making the top 4, and I think the team will continue to do even better.

Covid-19 & remote learning

I got pretty lucky overall with the COVID situation. I was only taking three classes this past semester, none of which had labs, and my fencing season officially ended the Saturday before Denison shut down. One of my classes continued to do regular live sessions, another switched to Slack with a few Google meetings, and the third moved entirely to Notebowl discussion boards. I think my professors did a really good job of finding ways to teach remotely in an effective way. I was also working as a TA for a CS/DA class, and switching to remote TAing was pretty difficult. We used Slack to let students send questions to the professors and TAs, but it felt very impersonal and we definitely got fewer questions than we had at in-person sessions before everything shut down.

The fencing team and the Math and CS department always have end-of-year celebrations in the spring, where we give out awards and recognize the graduating seniors. It was pretty sad to not be able to attend those parties as a senior. My coach set up a Google meeting to take the place of the fencing party, and he continued to organize team video chats through the end of the semester. The CS department also held a virtual celebration on Zoom and gave students some time to talk to professors in small groups, which was especially nice as a senior.

Haley LeBlanc '20 is a Computer Science and Mathematics from Portland, OR. She is a Anderson Scholarship, Goldwater Scholarship, and Provost's Academic Excellence Award recipient. She is also one of the captains of the women's fencing team. Her favorite Whit's flavor is black raspberry chip and her favorite spot on campus is the philosophy lounge.

Winning back-to-back conference championships as part of our football team was very powerful for me. Knowing all of the hard work and discipline that went into achieving that goal, from countless players and coaches who came before us, made that moment special. We wanted to honor all of those who helped establish the culture that we inherited and that we are continuing to develop. The support we received from the rest of the Denison community made that day truly unforgettable. There has never been a better time to be a member of Denison athletics than right now.

Covid-19 & remote learning

My initial response to our transition to online learning was palpable disappointment. I understood the potential gravity of the pandemic, and I realized that social distancing was our only viable option given the health risks posed by COVID-19, but I could not help but feel as though I was losing out on a special time in my life. The circumstances under which my time at Denison came to an end were far from ideal, but the response of my professors and classmates to the pandemic helped remind me why I am so proud to be a Denisonian. Watching my professors exude tremendous effort to ensure that our classroom experiences remained enriching was deeply inspiring, and I was equally inspired by the diligence of my peers during a time of uncertainty. My experience with remote learning reinforced in my mind what I already new—Denisonians can overcome any obstacles that appear before us.

Philosophy

I'll always remember running through the rain to Slayter at 2 AM to continue a conversation with friends, playing Dungeons and Dragons in the Philosophy Lounge, and watching a bunch of the Star Wars movies in the East common room. I'll also remember the time that Dr. Tony Lisska brought me cake from the Lisska Bar.

Covid-19 & remote learning

I wasn't able to present my senior research in person this year because of COVID. The Senior Symposium is a big deal in the Philosophy department so this was a rough blow, but the faculty kept the formatting as close to what it would have been if we were still in-person as they could. Even though it was online, I really enjoyed presenting at and attending the Senior Symposium, and I'm glad that the faculty didn't give up on hosting a live event.

Covid-19 & remote learning

Firstly, it was my last semester as an undergraduate at Denison so it was a disappointing way to finish the year, as it might have been for the other seniors as well. I had a couple of courses that either required a lab component or needed to work with special softwares installed on the Denison computers. So, at the end, it did affect the way the course ran but there was always some form of adaptability from the professors and how the syllabus ran to which I am grateful for. For instance, some courses had their lectures recorded and we were able to view it at our own convenience. Overall, I missed the classroom interactions that Denison is great for.

Podcastathon -Narrative Journalism Project

Denison has impacted my life through all the close connections I have made in the last four years. When I first arrived in 2016 I was really shy and didn't know how I was going to fit in, but as cheesy as it sounds, being at a small school like Denison allowed me to form friendships I know will last a lifetime. From performing at campus events to working quietly in the library for hours on end, my friends have been by my side every step of the way and my college career would have been way too monotonous without them. In the English and Communication departments, a lot of my professors continued to act as supportive mentors even after my classes with them had ended. As an alumni, it feels great to know that these same professors are only an email or a phone call away. Although times are tough right now, I know there are so many people whom I can reach out to with almost anything, and it makes this whole situation a lot more bearable!

Covid-19 & remote learning

When classes went online for the rest of this semester, I was left completely disoriented, as were many other students. Being an international student came with its own set of challenges, as most of us couldn't go back to our home countries on such short notice. The curriculum at Denison wasn't particularly designed for remote learning, so none of us knew how effective it was going to be. Since all my classes were senior seminars that relied mainly on inperson meetings and small group projects, I wasn't sure how we were expected to submit the rest of our assignments on time. All these impending concerns came with heavy waves of anxiety which I wasn't ready to deal with just yet. However, my professors were very understanding, and sent us new schedules for the rest of the semester. These schedules entailed revised guidelines for assignment submissions along with more flexible deadlines, which reduced our stress levels and helped us pass classes with more ease. It was great to see how most of the professors creatively revised the rest of our syllabuses on such short notice, all while allowing us to finish up all the coursework we started. No one forgets their senior year of college, but the Class of 2020 won't forget it for a whole different reason!

Physics-more

Ange Sommerer '20 is a physics major and astronomy minor from Ballston Spa, NY. Her favorite spot on campus is the physics library and the Eisner center.

One of my favorite memories at Denison was the trip our bluegrass band took down to Raleigh, NC for the IBMA World of Bluegrass festival to perform at the college showcase. On top of being a great bonding experience, it was great to just jam with other bluegrass players from all over the world during jam sessions, or just listening to professionals like the Sister Sadie perform (who came to play at Denison earlier this year). Overall, bluegrass was one of my favorite things to get involved with at Denison, because it was unexpected (I didn't even know what bluegrass was before coming to Denison). I was asked to join the ensemble because they needed an upright bass player, and I am honestly really glad I did.

Another favorite memory of mine is the three years of summer research I did with the physics department. I always enjoyed the more relaxed feel of summer, weekly liquid nitrogen ice cream sessions, the daily "Where is Doty?" One of the most entertaining activities was department paintball, where we learned to never underestimate Dr. Lott. One day I will get Dr. Doty back for sniping me between the eyes.

Covid-19 & remote learning

The biggest change with classes moving to online learning was in all my ensembles. Playing live jam sessions is difficult due to latency, microphone quality, etc. For bluegrass, our instructor had us put together songs using BandLab. Each of us would record our parts and upload to Bandlab, which Adam would then mix together. In that way, we still have a finished product of the music we would have performed at our final concert. Unfortunately, that would have been much more difficult for us to do in Orchestra or Jazz band, as orchestra has 50+ people, making it difficult to get a mix, and both orchestral and jazz music is more reliant on being in person and playing in a group.

The physics jump wasn't as jarring, as I didn't have any labs this semester. Overall, while I still would have preferred in person classes, I think the switch to online lectures went pretty smooth for me.

Athletics

At Denison, sports are an important part of campus life. The different athletic teams on campus are more than just teams – they are family. Despite the ups and downs, wins and losses, students often claim that their athletic experience helped them grow as a person on the hill. Games held on campus bring the community together, as Denisonians cheer on their peers, their friends and their family.

Baseball & Softball

Denison baseball suspends its 2020 season with a record of 5-4. The class leaves with 105 career wins, one North Coast Athletic Conference Tournament championship and two NCAA regional tournament berths. Denison's softball's senior class leaves with 80 career wins and three-straight trips to the North Coast Athletic Conference Tournament. With a 3-2 win to Muskingum, Denison suspends the season with a record of 3-6.

Tennis

The 2019-20 Denison men's tennis team comprised of seven players that opened the year ranked in the top-30 nationally and finished the same. Headlined by a pair of first-team All-North Coast Athletic Conference performers in Vlad Rotnov and Tim Cianciola, the Big Red were ready to make a statement before the season came to an abrupt halt.

Basketball

Denison's men's basketball season comes to an end with a record of 11-16. They were also recognized by the North Coast Athletic Conference after junior Conor Fenton was named an All-NCAC Honorable Mention selection following the 2019-20 season. #### Swim & Dive Denison women's swimming & diving was ranked as the No. 1 team in Division III throughout the season before its abrupt ending. With five NCAA Division III national championships in the last nine years the Denison Men's swimming and diving enter this year's championship as the top-ranked team in D-III swimming & diving. Denison men's & women's swimming & diving was recognized by the College Swimming and Diving Coaches Association of America (CSCAA).

Denison has given me so many resources and skills that I will be able to use in my future endeavors. The physics department has given me a lot of problem solving skills and an intellectual curiosity that will help me in graduate school, and the swim program has made me into a tenacious, ambitious, goal-oriented person that will get me to any goal I will ever have in life. I have made many friends and memories at Denison, with the physics department and with the swim team. I've been shaped into a better person than I was when I first got here and I hope I have made an impact on the Denison community throughout my four years here as well.

Semiors

Graduation is finally here; but, many students did not envision celebrating it from their homes. The Class of 2020 share an online commencement program with a global pandemic in the background. Regardless of how things unfolded, these 585 students leave Denison with unbreakable friendships, incredible stories and a number of memories, as they move on to their next great adventure, taking the skills and knowledge

It all started here -

Denison is a journey that every student embarks on by being inducted and settling down in their first-year dorms, an incredible community that will stay with them long after they have graduated.

Aidan Lannarino Westerville, OH

"I don't think anyone goes into the college experience knowing exactly what they're getting themselves into. Perhaps it's the sort of thing that is a symptom of that old saying "you don't know what you've got until it's gone" but I can't help but think that these last four years have been the most important ones of my life. Since being off the hill, I've realized that I've gotten to share a part in so many wonderful adventures. It was the late nights spent talking to friends, trudging across the campus in the middle of winter, or perhapsjust a hug and a smile after a long day of stress. But I'm going to miss it, and everyone in it, because I'd have never thought that I'd have a special place in my heart for this vulture-infested hill."

"Telling you I love to travel would be an understatement. I was born in Salem, Oregon and lived in Australia for nine months. I've spent a summer in Japan, and appreciate their high standards for aesthetics. I've traveled to India to learn more about my family's heritage, and this spring I'll be abroad in Seville, Spain. All of this traveling has been the root source of inspiration for my art. After Denison I hope to be an art director for an advertising agency, work as a freelance graphic designer, or be a photo journalist. Essentially I'll continue working on what I'm passionate about."

"Yesterday I interviewed for a summer job, and they asked me what my dream job would be. I said "writer" without hesitating, and I think I surprised both of us. I don't know if this will land me that job at the bike store, but I do know that if you had asked me this question a year ago, I would have said "I don't know," and four years ago it probably would have been something along the lines of "professional soccer player." From the professors and staff to my best friends, Denison has affected me in ways I didn't even realize, and I will forever be grateful for my time on the hill."

Rosa Canales

"When I was at Denison, I was really unsure what I wanted to do after graduation. I am currently a music composition and communication major, and I had no idea what I would do with these two things I love so much. Although leaving early from Denison was definitely hard, I feel like nothing could have shown me more how much Denison changed me, and how much I will continue using these things no matter what career I have. I currently live in an apartment in Columbus working at a local co-op, and I am making music all the time. I may not know exactly what the future holds for post-grad plans, but I know I will be using what I learned from Denison in so many ways that extends past my career, and I know I will be making art!"

"I took swim lessons when I was six and I've been committed to the sport ever since. I swim the 200 back, 200 IM, and 400 IM. My favorite comfort food post event is probably just a good bowl of ramen. Outside of swimming I'm a physics major and a math minor."

Francis Biagoili (right) Allendale, NJ

"When I was six I began swimming. It was the only thing I was good at so I've stuck with it! I swim the 200 IM, 400 IM, and 200 fly. After practice or a meet my favorite food is definitely my mom's baked ziti. Outside of the pool I study biology, and I'm a chemistry minor."

Sydney MacBlane Louisville, KY

"Don't ever stop learning and growing as a person. Be open to new experiences and expand yourself to the unknown. You never know what opportunities will come with it. Denison has pushed me to go out of my comfort zone resulting in growth experiences that will only benefit me later in life."

"The top 3 lessons Denison has taught me—

- 1. A true leader knows when to ask for help and is comfortable needing it.
- 2. Take ownership of your time at Denison. No one will hold your hand. You have to pull your self up and get after it.
- 3. Know when to smile and wave and when to call a meeting.

One experience that has impacted me for the better at Denison was last spring I was able to take part in the Sexual Respect Dinners to see and hear the community come together to promote a culture of sexual respect at Denison. It was fucking sick. Last year was a struggle on many fronts and to see some good come out of that experience is a true testament to who we are as Denisonian's and as one Denison community."

Marc Haddad Cleveland, OH

"Hey, my name is Marc and I'd classify myself as a fun person. I was born in Maryland, but I was raised in Cleveland. I'm studying Biochem and plan on going to graduate school. On the hill you'll probably run into me in Ebaugh. In the science department I'm a TA, lab assistant, and tutor. I'm involved in various groups on campus; I'm co-president of MECO, captain of the rugby team, and I volunteer with Big Brother. Even though my schedule is busy, I find time to read sci-fi and I enjoy watching classic movies."

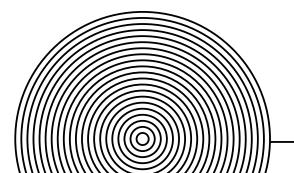

Charles Bassett Edina, MN

"It's so easy to find yourself acting in a monotonous routine these days, but Finn the human put it best saying: "I'm kinda glad we're walking in this direction. We never walk in this direction." I've always found fighting repetition and predictability to add a hint of excitement to my life. At Denison, any opportunity that threw off my daily schedule was welcome whether it was taking on spicy new roles in the ENVS department or adding a little chaos to campus through a variety of means. I keep myself on my toes even today storming downstairs with a beer to ask my mom if she wants to lose to me in Bananagrams. Although I rarely win, I never regret challenging the sentient dictionary that is my mom, and that's kinda the advice I want to leave you all with: take on Denison and your life as a whole without regret for lost opportunities. Spice it up a little. I love and miss you all."

"Something that I've always struggled with is asking for help. I'm a first-gen and the oldest child so I always had to have my shit together. I always pushed myself to be the best, to be a leader. I genuinely love helping and mentoring others but often I would choose that before helping myself. So now I practice self-interest which is the balance between selfish and selfless. So for the new school year, balance is the goal."

In a online event several faculty members including president weinberg congragulated the class of 2020 for thier achievement. Michaela Morrison '20, chosen student speaker, addresses her classmates and encourages them to have a posite outlook. Also Steve Carell '84 made a surprise apperance as the commencement speaker!

Commencement

Though an in-person commencement for the class of 2020 was not possible due to Covid-19, neither Denison nor the graduating students stopped short of celebrating the cumulation of their four years at Denison.

Memories

Denison will miss its wonderful class of 2020. Having to move commencement to a remote event does not negate all the cherished memories and experiences that this class will hold. Remote or together, the class of 2020 celebrates the culmination of their four years at Denison.

Putting together a yearbook is a monumental task, and no single person or even a single staff can do it alone. We rely on a lot of outside help, including but not limited to:

University Communications, who provide us with funding, photos, and guidance as well as a larger context within the University;

Craig Hicks and Denison Athletics, who provide all the sports images;

Academic department secretaries, who work with us to arrange faculty photos and provide other helpful info;

Student photographers from various organizations on campus such as University Programming Council (UPC).

We would also like to thank all the seniors who shared their Denison experience with us through interviews.

Thanks to Humans of Denison (Helen Nickerson '21) for the stories of seniors shared on the instagram page and all the seniors who shared their personal pictures with Denison.

The staff thanks our advisor, Jamie Hale '78, for enormous amounts of guidance and mentorship; for being an advocate for our hard work and helping us where it was needed; for being our liaison with University Communications and providing photo access; and for being our ferce and constant friend.

We apologize for errors, misspellings, and inconsistencies in this book.
